

ADVERTISEMENT OF OPENING

The Department of Physical and Applied Geology of Institute of Geography and Earth Sciences of Faculty of Science at Eötvös Loránd University invites applications for a full-time Senior Lecturer (assistant professor) position. Candidates are expected to have a strong research and teaching profile in particular in the field of earth sciences and environmental sciences.

Functions to be carried out: planning, preparing and delivering effective teaching and supervision of the following lectures and practical trainings (in Hungarian and English) such as geology, reconnaissance and mining of sedimentary mineral resources courses offered by the Earth Sciences and Environmental Sciences BSc degree program as well as the Geology and Environmental Sciences MSc degree program;

- contributing to the Faculty's general research activities at operational and strategic levels;
- planning and preparing significant research funding proposals in the field of geomathematics, geochemistry of sedimentary formations and sedimentology;
- participating in, and where appropriate leading, development of the curriculum and of teaching methods, creating synergies between research and education with involvement of students into research activities of the Department

Requirements:

- MSc degree in Geology, and PhD.
- applicants should state with a commensurate track record being expected for candidates to assistant professor positions
- university teaching experience
- candidates must have carried out outstanding scientific research in the field of geology which is proven by research output of a high level in peer-reviewed international publications, demonstrating a distinguished research profile
- good knowledge of English
- candidates must have postdoctoral experience

How to apply:

Candidates are required to submit the complete application as email attachments addressed to the Dean of Faculty of Science, Dr. Péter SURJÁN at the following e-mail address: dekan@ttk.elte.hu and to the Head of the Department, Dr. József PÁLFY at the following e-mail address: palfy@elte.hu.

Applications are required to include:

- Cover letter
- CV
- MTMT ID or full list of publications and independent citations
- Scanned copies of your certificates
- Statement of research interest and teaching objectives

Deadline for applications: 10 June 2016